As you can see from the data, for many of the students, the project was successful to at least see a little improvement. I only required that they make five changes. Some students chose to make more. Some students chose to only do the five. When I gathered the data, I left notes for the students in Write to Learn that needed to take the assignment more seriously and put more effort in so they could see growth. This data is strictly from Write to Learn and does not include the final essay for the project.
